About MCES

Montgomery County Emergency Service, Inc. (MCES) is a freestanding not-for-profit organization in operation since 1974. It provides emergency psychiatric evaluations, inpatient psychiatric care, and other crisis intervention services on a 24/7 basis. These include a suicide/crisis hotline; walk-in and mobile crisis intervention; and a Crisis Residential Program (CRP). We operate a unique dedicated psychiatric emergency medical service (EMS) with two ambulances that respond to psychiatric emergencies in the community.

MCES also provides forensic consultations and outpatient treatment for the developmentally disabled and other people with special needs.

MCES provides all services based on need regardless of insurance coverage. Our services are person-centered, recovery-oriented, and trauma aware. We promote wellness and community integration. We advocate for the needs of those with mental illness who are involved with the criminal justice system. We educate police to recognize possible mental illness and to divert at-risk persons to treatment when appropriate.

The MCES Vision:

The staff, Board and volunteers of MCES pledge to promote mental health in our community and to provide excellent intervention in a safe and compassionate environment through innovation, teamwork, and a commitment to assist our clients in their recovery.

To make this statement a reality, MCES staff makes continuous efforts to be on the cutting edge of deliverance of behavioral health services. MCES staff embraced the recovery movement from its beginning, pioneered the utilization of peer specialists in an inpatient setting, and incorporated trauma awareness into all aspects of service. This attitude is reflected in the lecture series where some lectures represent our solid roots, providing factual information that is needed for those who want to better understand the field. Other lectures are intended to be like spring blooms, where new ideas are explored and growth is promoted. This is why some lectures are didactic in nature and others are like “think tanks” with the expectation that you will come prepared to fully participate in the lecture. (“Think tank” lectures will be marked with an asterisk *.)

Crisis Intervention Specialist (2 Days)
March 14-15, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $120
Presenter: Michelle Monzo, BS
Approved Credits:  12 APA & 12 PCB

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and staff to deal safely and positively with individuals experiencing a psychiatric emergency, mental health crisis or other serious behavioral health problem as a first responder.

MCES's training assures improved crisis intervention skills, familiarity with signs of mental illness, decreased anxiety dealing with mentally ill individuals, and increased personal safety dealing with mentally ill individuals. It benefits the community by increasing empathy of individuals working with the mentally ill, lessening the probability of injury or force contact, and decreasing the probability of criminal justice system involvement and incarceration.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Learn to interview and assess individuals experiencing a behavioral health crisis.
2. Demonstrate how to proactively resolve conflicts and de-escalate potentially violent situations without the use of force.
3. Discuss the use of local community-based mental health crisis services to divert mentally ill individuals from the criminal justice system, when appropriate.
4. Utilize state mental health laws and procedures to arrange involuntary psychiatric evaluations and hospitalizations, when indicated.
Implementing a Trauma Aware Culture

March 22, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am $30

Presenters: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE; Kathleen Burns, BSN, RN; Jessica Celestin, MSW; & Naomi Finkel, RN

Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

This intermediate level presentation is designed for psychologists and staff who are interested in better understanding how trauma awareness can be integrated into the delivery of behavioral health services.

MCES enhanced trauma awareness through the implementation of change in culture, environment, programming. This lecture will highlight the transformation that has occurred in delivery of care.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Analyze what it is to deliver trauma aware behavioral health services.
2. Learn a systematic approach to bring about change.
3. Discuss how culture, environment, and programming can be modified to become trauma aware in order to improve patient outcomes.

Going from Patient to Staff: A Five Part System for Mental Health Recovery

March 29, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am $30

Presenter: Fred McLaren, MS, CPS

Approved Credits: 3 APA

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists, providers and consumers. This is a five-part system for mental health recovery that will help individuals stay out of the hospital, go back to work, live independently in the community, and enjoy a comparable quality of life to those who do not have mental health challenges.

Years ago, I was a patient at MCES attending groups. Now I work at MCES, and co-facilitate groups for the patients. I've developed a five-part system for mental health recovery which I call the C.R.E.W.W. system. The five parts are community integration, the recovery principles, supported employment, Wellness Recovery Action Plan (WRAP), and wellness strategies. The five-part system has been instrumental to my mental health recovery, allowed me to work in the field, keep stable housing, and stay in a stable relationship and I believe this system can help a lot of other people with their own recovery.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Explain how community integration can help recovery.
2. Describe how employment can help recovery.
3. Analyze how WRAP and wellness strategies can facilitate recovery.

Anger Management & Verbal De-Escalation

April 12, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm $60

Presenters: Michelle Monzo, BS & John Fulford, MHS

Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB  (Limited to 25 attendees)

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who want to learn non-harmful techniques to allow them to maintain a therapeutic relationship as well as promote a secure environment for others.

Anger plays a dual role in crises. It may be the cause or an effect. In either case, it is an impediment to crisis resolution and can significantly increase risk. Learn how to deter its onset and to contain it as a factor in dealing with mental health emergencies. Learn how to manage physically aggressive individuals in a safe and therapeutic manner. Demonstration of non-aggressive safety techniques, e.g. blocking techniques, hair pulls, chokes, grabs, bites, safety stance.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Identify common sources of anger in crisis and emergency situations.
2. Describe basic anger aversion techniques for crisis staff.
3. Discuss tactics for calming and controlling anger in individuals in crisis.
4. Assess and learn to manage our own anger.
5. Demonstrate how to work with an individual in crisis.
6. Discuss the use of verbal/physical intervention and non-verbal body language.
7. Demonstrate hands-on techniques for anger management and verbal de-escalation.
Basic Psychiatry: Axis I - V
April 19, 2012  8:30 am – 4:00 pm  $60
Presenter: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE
Approved Credits:  6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who want a birds-eye-view of the field of psychiatry, which is intended to increase the understanding of its complexity and why each clinical presentation is different.

A review of psychiatry from the perspective of AXIS I-V with the intent to understand the different mental illnesses with character pathology and life circumstances.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Analyze how a psychiatric assessment is done from a holistic point-of-view.
2. Describe major mental illnesses and character pathology.
3. Discuss how health, trauma, and life circumstances affect the above.

Resilience After Traumatic Loss/Coping With Grief *
April 26, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenters: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE, Anthony Salvatore, MA & Guest
Approved Credits:  3 APA & 3 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who work with individuals who have experienced a loss due to a suicide, homicide, accident, disaster or other critical incident. A personal traumatic grief story will be part of the presentation.

Many behavioral health consumers lose family members, friends, or even providers to deaths that are sudden, unexpected and often violent. These are traumatic losses that involve severe bereavement and may put those affected at risk of recurrence or relapse, complicated grief reactions, and even suicidal behavior. Such losses may strain resilience and overwhelm coping skills and may require self-help and support as well as provider intervention.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Explain the nature of a traumatic loss related to grief.
2. Discuss how a traumatic loss may lead to a complicated grief reaction and exacerbation of an existing psychiatric or addiction disorder.
3. Assess approaches for providing support, enhancing resilience, and maintaining recovery after a traumatic loss.

Birds of Different Feathers Survive Together *
May 3, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60
Presenters: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE & Michelle Monzo, BS
Approved Credits:  6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who want to gain awareness of different thinking styles and emotional needs. The intent is to increase the capacity to communicate with others while valuing the differences.

We live in a Babel Tower, each one of us has our own language based on how he/she perceives and communicates. Gaining awareness will open the door for personal growth and healthy interpersonal relationships.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Describe how the brain functions and the different thinking styles.
2. Explain how emotions can be handled in a manner that promotes personal growth and mental health.
3. Create a capacity for relating to others with different thinking styles or emotional needs by increasing self awareness.
Compulsive Hoarding

May 10, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenter: Michelle Monzo, BS
Approved Credits: 3 APA

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who work with individuals who hoard. This lecture will assist staff in understanding people who hoard, their compulsions, ways to intervene and help them learn how to live safer, more enjoyable lives.

Think about the one material object in your home that you would grab first in a fire...now imagine feeling that strongly about every single possession. The disorder of hoarding is estimated to affect 2-5% of our population. Hoarding involves the excessive collection of items and the inability to discard them, resulting in fire hazards, health hazards, impaired functioning, economic burdens and adverse effects on family and friends.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Describe the signs and symptoms of hoarding.
2. Assess when hoarding is really Obsessive Compulsive Disorder (OCD).
3. List the risk factors related to hoarding.
4. Discuss intervention and treatment strategies that help people who struggle with hoarding.

When You’re Crippled Inside: A Primer in Positive Psychology

May 17, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenters: Janine Cope, PsyD & Ed Jablonski, MEd, CAADC, CCDP-D
Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

Many consumers in the forensic population suffer from co-occurring disorders. Among this group, many suffer from a high recidivism rate both in terms of re-involvement with the criminal justice system and relapse to the symptomology of their co-occurring disorders. This introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and staff will provide staff with positive psychology tools that offer clients the opportunity to focus on their strengths as a tool in maintaining recovery. It also provides staff with a more specific view of positive psychology with varied forensic consumers.

To complement the disease model, this presentation seeks to focus on the strengths-based approach to treatment and recovery. It will discuss the benefits of positive psychology as a treatment approach. Literature review, discussion and an application exercise will be used as vehicles to promote these goals.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. List the basic principles of the positive psychology model.
2. Analyze a case study to view an application of positive psychology tools.
3. Discuss the pros and cons of an integrative approach.
4. Assess the literature results pertaining to the use of positive psychology as a treatment intervention.

Culture, Delusions, Illusions

May 24, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60
Presenters: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE & Violet Henighan, DO
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who work with people who come to the attention of the Behavioral Health field to understand the effect culture has on treatment.

When it comes to delusional ideation, there is a very fine line between what is considered normal and pathology. Given the culture we live in and our up-bringing each one of us has a frame of reference that interferes with our capacity to relate to others. This can lead to a distorted perception of their ideation or behavior. Gaining an understanding of how the mind works, how we perceive, and how culture and religion plays a role can open the path to empathy and greater self-awareness.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Analyze thinking and the power of language.
2. Discuss ideation and how it finds its roots in various cultures and religion.
3. Assess how culture and ethnicity become distorting factors in the transference/contra-transference phenomena.
Street Drugs & Those Affected by Mental Illness
June 7, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenter: Donald Kline, PhD
Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

This is an advanced level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who need to understand how drug abuse affects mentally ill individuals and what interventions and treatment options we can offer.

Explore the scientific facts about drugs commonly used and abused by persons with behavioral health issues (MH/MR/D&A). It integrates biological, psychological, social and cultural components in its discussion of the most popular psychoactive substances used in our society.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Analyze the many facets of drugs and their impact on persons with behavioral health issues and society, with discussion on why drug abuse and mental disorders commonly co-occur.
2. Discuss the impact on society of both licit and illicit drug use.
3. Compile a list of illicit drugs.
4. Critique "pro" and "anti" drug use websites for the participants to continue monitoring the use and abuse of street drugs after the lecture.

Basic Psychopharmacology
June 14, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60
Presenter: Zeeshan Javid, MD
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and mental health professionals (such as therapists and social workers) who may not have had extensive biological training to better understand pharmacological approaches to treating mental illness.

Over the past few decades, pharmacology has played an increasingly important role in the treatment of psychiatric disorders. This presentation will discuss the classes of medications used and their associated risks and benefits.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. List major classes of psychotropic medication.
2. Describe FDA indications of medications as well as off label uses.
3. Explain the risks and benefits associated with psychotropic medication.
4. Discuss how medications may be incorporated into one's mental health treatment.

Non-Verbal Communication  (Rescheduled from May 31)
September 6, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenters: Donald Kline, PhD & Fred McLaren, MS, CPS
Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and other professionals and support staff who want to learn or be refreshed in perceiving and interpreting non-verbal cues or communication of individuals with behavioral health issues and who are in crisis. Misinterpretation and a poor attitude can destroy your rapport with individuals in crisis and is dangerous for all involved.

This lecture will cover non-verbal communication, both sending and receiving. The importance of correctly interpreting non-verbal communication will be stressed. Active listening and non-verbal communication will be covered. People perceive non-verbal communication differently when they're in crisis or not doing well.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Analyze how to correctly interpret non-verbal communication.
2. Explain the link between non-verbal communication and active listening.
3. Compare how sending and receiving non-verbal communication is different when in crisis.
Understanding Anxiety

September 13, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60

Presenter: Anthony Matteo, PhD
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who work with individuals that suffer from anxiety. Teaching our clients to manage their anxiety is an invaluable tool. Interventions will be discussed for DSM-IV Anxiety Disorders. Cognitive and behavioral interventions will be addressed. Short-term psychodynamic interventions will also be discussed.

Anxiety comes in many forms. While medications have been quite effective toward managing anxiety, these medications can be abused or even contraindicated for certain populations. Fortunately, psychotherapies have been developed to assist people suffering from anxiety. We will review talk and behavioral therapies for the DSM-IV diagnoses. Interventions will also be discussed from a psychodynamic perspective. Teaching clients that anxiety serves a particular function (giving client and provider insight into internal conflicts) will be a theme throughout this presentation.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Discuss theories of anxiety and its function.
3. Discuss psychotherapy interventions from the perspective of a psychologist working in an inpatient hospital setting using a short-term psychodynamic approach.

Highlights of Forensic Psychiatry

September 27, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60

Presenter: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who want a review of forensic psychiatry and whose jobs deal with persons that have behavioral health needs and involvement with legal system.

This is a birds-eye-view of the crossroad between psychiatry and the law, with emphasis on areas that most frequently require a psychiatrist's opinion.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Analyze the basis for court commitments and other aspects of civil forensic psychiatry.
2. Assess what criminal forensic psychiatry is, emphasizing competency and criminal responsibility.
3. Discuss aspects of civil forensic psychiatry, including guardianships, wills, and assessments to assist in child custody.

---

Stress Management for Crisis Workers

September 20, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30

Presenter: Michelle Monzo, BS
Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

While our work is personally rewarding and challenging, it has great potential to affect crisis workers in harmful ways. Very often the stress experienced by the crisis worker is ignored, minimized, or addressed as an afterthought. In order to properly care for/help others, we must first take care of ourselves! An unknown author once commented about stress that "We are only as sick as our secrets."

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. List the sources of stress in your life.
2. Analyze how you currently cope with stress.
3. Describe healthy ways to manage stress and to function well "in the heat of the moment."

 Montgomery County Emergency Service, Inc.  610-279-6100  ♦  www.mces.org
Crisis Intervention Specialist (2 Days)

October 3 - 4, 2012  8:30am - 4:00 pm  $120
Presenter: Michelle Monzo, BS
Approved Credits: 12 APA & 12 PCB

This is an introductory level presentation designed for psychologists and staff to deal safely and positively with individuals experiencing a psychiatric emergency, mental health crisis or other serious behavioral health problem as a first responder.

MCES's training assures improved crisis intervention skills, familiarity with signs of mental illness, decreased anxiety in dealing with mentally ill individuals, and increased personal safety in dealing with mentally ill individuals. It benefits the community by increasing empathy of individuals working with the mentally ill, lessening the probability of injury or police contact, and decreasing the probability of criminal justice system involvement and incarceration.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Learn to interview and assess individuals experiencing a behavioral health crisis.
2. Demonstrate how to pro-actively resolve conflicts and de-escalate potentially violent situations without the use of force.
3. Discuss the use of local community-based mental health crisis services to divert mentally ill individuals from the criminal justice system, when appropriate.
4. Utilize state mental health laws and procedures to arrange involuntary psychiatric evaluations and hospitalizations, when indicated.

Crisis & Forensic Diversion

October 11, 2012  8:30am - 4:00 pm  $60
Presenters: Donald Kline, PhD; Anthony Salvatore, MA; Kathleen Burns, BSN, RN & Invited Guests
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists, counselors, case managers, therapists, and other behavioral health and human service personnel who work with individuals at risk or in crisis. The Forensic Diversion of the Mentally Ill section will focus on the historical treatment of the mentally ill as they became entangled in the criminal justice system. We will review the transformation of the mental health system and its impact from hospitalization, deinstitutionalization, and community-based services to trans-institutionalization. The presentation will also focus on the criminal justice and mental health communities and how they can work in a collaborative manner to assist those who suffer from a behavioral illness (mental illness, mental retardation, and substance abuse) and become entangled in the criminal justice system. We will look at the current issues that surround the criminalization of the mentally ill and look at strategies to reduce the inappropriate incarceration of those that suffer with a mental illness.

Crisis Diversion: Many crisis situations can be prevented or minimized if addressed in the pre-crisis phase, before they emerge as serious problems or threats to the individual. Mental health crises and psychiatric emergencies are reviewed, points of early intervention are identified, and possible strategies for avoiding crisis situations are explored.

Forensic/Court Diversion: The recidivism rate of incarceration and hospitalization is higher among those with a severe mental illness and/or substance abuse problem than the general public. In addition, those with a severe mental illness tend to spend more time incarcerated than those without a mental illness for the same or lesser crime. This presentation will give alternatives to incarceration and hospitalization by outlining the types of treatment courts use in Montgomery County and how they function. The two currently operating in Montgomery County are Behavioral Health Court and Drug Court; we will be discussing both of them.
This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Explain the nature of a mental health crisis and a psychiatric emergency.
2. Assess the concept of the pre-crisis phase and investigate approaches to crisis diversion.
3. Describe Forensic Diversion from contact with law enforcement to re-entry and discuss ways to negotiate for the individuals we serve entangled in the legal system.
4. Recite a brief overview of the Sequential Intercept Model.
5. Analyze how each treatment Court works and the purpose of them, including the referral process, incentives and sanctions used for the individual Courts.
6. List the criteria used for eligibility as well as exclusionary criteria for these Courts and discuss why they play an important role in today’s society.

Understanding, Identifying and Treating Self-Injury

October 18, 2012 8:30 am - 4:00 pm $60
Presenter: Anthony Matteo, PhD & Guest
Approved Credits: 6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who treat individuals who self-injure. Self-injury has frequently been mislabeled and misunderstood with negative consequences in treatment. For example, self-injury has frequently been referred to as "suicidal behavioral," which not only has implications for how people are treated, but often in which setting they are treated. Interventions will be explored from multiple theoretical orientations. A short-term psychodynamic approach will be detailed. A guest speaker has been invited to share her own experiences toward recovery.

Those who self-injure are frequently seen as difficult to treat, and self-injury is often misunderstood with potentially negative consequences. Understanding and empathy for those who self-injure will be fostered. The dynamics underlying self-injury will be examined and treatment interventions will be reviewed.

Preventing Suicide in Veterans

October 25, 2012 8:30 am - 11:45 am $30
Presenters: Allison M. Stanco, MS, LPC; Rick Hohner, LCSW & Stephanie Landes, MS
Approved Credits: 3 APA & 3 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists, counselors, case managers, behavioral health therapists, clergy, and other human service personnel who work with veterans at risk of suicide and their families.

Military service is a significant risk factor for suicide, and a high incidence of suicidal behaviors and completed suicides has been documented among Veterans. This presentation will review what has been learned about suicide in Vets of all eras and what the Vet, the VA, other providers, the community, and families can do.

This workshop is designed to help you:

1. Assess the incidence of suicide and suicidal behavioral in U.S. Veterans.
2. Explain the VA’s suicide prevention initiatives.
3. Discuss personal, family, and community suicide prevention measures for Vets.
Dementia: An Overview for Victims and Caregivers
November 1, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenter: Jordan Santina, DO
Approved Credits:  3 APA

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff who are interested in a better understanding of the different types of dementia and the skills needed for caregivers to successfully cope with these stages of life. A brief review of the current classification of dementia and how caregivers can make lemonade with such sour lemons.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Describe the classifications of dementia.
2. Explain the impact of dementia on immediate family and caregivers.
3. Discuss opportunities for engagement in life through this difficult process.

302 & The Law
November 8, 2012  8:30 am - 11:45 am  $30
Presenter: Paul DeMarco, BSN, RN
Approved Credits:  3 APA & 3 PCB

This is an intermediate level presentation designed for psychologists and staff to provide a background regarding the Mental Health Law and specifically the Montgomery County Procedures. Involuntary procedures are often the subject of much controversy and misconceptions. Since every County develops its own procedures, if you work in Montgomery County, this lecture gives you a chance to get the information and ask questions from the source of procedures developed for Montgomery County.

This fast moving lecture will provide information and ample time to discuss questions from the group regarding Montgomery County Involuntary Procedures. (Everyone who provides an email address will be provided a copy of the Power-Point presentation to take back to their workplace.)

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Discuss and provide examples of the four dangerous criteria described in the Mental Health Law.
2. Describe how to advise co-workers, family, or interested parties of the potential appropriateness of the request for involuntary procedures.
3. Explain how involuntary procedures can be accessed.
4. Discuss what conditions are not covered under the MHPA.

Understanding Character: Two Ways to Skin a Cat *
November 15, 2012  8:30 am - 4:00 pm  $60
Presenters: Rocio Nell, MD, CPE & Anthony Matteo, PhD
Approved Credits:  6 APA & 6 PCB

This is an advanced level presentation designed for psychologists, social workers, case managers, substance abuse counselors, therapists, counselors and clinical supervisors who work with individuals who struggle with character defenses. Additionally, those who have a general interest in the area are encouraged to attend as concepts and terms will be described and explained.

Those people who suffer with character defenses, such as those individuals diagnosed with Borderline Personality Disorder, are frequently seen as difficult to treat. The presentation will give an understanding of the development of personality struggles from a dynamic perspective. Additionally, using a recovery and trauma informed perspective, methods to understand and work with character defenses will be presented.

The Enneagram approach to character style assumes that according to your upbringing, people develop different ways of perceiving the world and relating to others. Gaining an understanding of one's own perspective can raise the ability to communicate with others and gain an understanding of where they are coming from, thus increasing their capacity to relate to them.

This workshop is designed to help you:
1. Describe a general definition of Borderline and other Personality Disorders.
2. Discuss the different character styles and how they develop from a psychodynamic perspective.
3. Compare the different ways of relating and perceiving the world based on the Enneagram approach.
4. Analyze the role of therapy and helping people cope with their emotions and ideations.

Education at MCES

In 1978, MCES was identified as an exemplary project by the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice. By accepting that recognition, MCES became committed to providing education, not just in how to handle psychiatric emergencies, but in all relevant aspects of the field. Education provided at MCES has been sought by surrounding counties and states and our staff has been presenters at national level conferences. At the present time, MCES provides education to patients and their families, to students from multiple disciplines, to the police and those who work in the criminal justice system, as well as to the community at large. Since 1994 MCES has provided an annual Community Lecture Series. The program has grown in response to the requests and reactions of the participants. The lectures are intended to decrease the stigma of mental illness, to promote the understanding of what behavioral health has to offer, and to promote personal growth. The Community Lectures are presented in the spring and fall and draws mostly on the knowledge base of MCES staff.

Equal Access and Opportunity

It is the policy of MCES to admit and treat all patients without regard to race, color, sex, sexual preference, national origin, religious creed, or disability. The same requirements for admission are applied to all. Patients are assigned within the hospital without regard to race, color, sexual preference, national origin, religious creed, disability or Limited English Proficiency (LEP). There is no distinction in eligibility for, or in the manner of providing, any patient service provided by or through the hospital. Furthermore, patients shall not be referred to those facilities which are known to the hospital to be in noncompliance with the provisions of the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act. MCES will contact corresponding appropriate agencies to assist with translative or interpretive services. MCES is an equal opportunity employer and considers all applicants without regard to race, color, age, sex, national origin, religious creed, disability, sexual orientation, or limited English proficiency. Complaints of discrimination may be filed with the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, Office of Civil Rights, DPW Bureau of Equal Opportunity and PA Human Relations Commission.
